Introduction 01

We are making good things happen

JustGiving® is the world's most trusted platform for online giving, helping people in almost every single country in the world raise over £5.5 billion for good causes since we were founded in 2000.

Our founders, Zarine and Anne-Marie started JustGiving.com and enabled charities to receive donations online from anywhere in the world. Hello online giving. Goodbye sponsorship forms and shaking buckets in the street. To date, more than 178 million donations have been made through JustGiving to good causes.

In 2017, JustGiving joined the Blackbaud family - a global cloud software company powering social good. With over 450,000 charities, now using JustGiving worldwide, together we're changing the game when it comes to giving.

We believe the world will be a better place when good takes over

Our Brand Vision

Our Story

1995

Paper sponsorship forms are used to collect donations. Usually carried out door-to-door, the cash needs to be collected in person before handing it over to the charity.

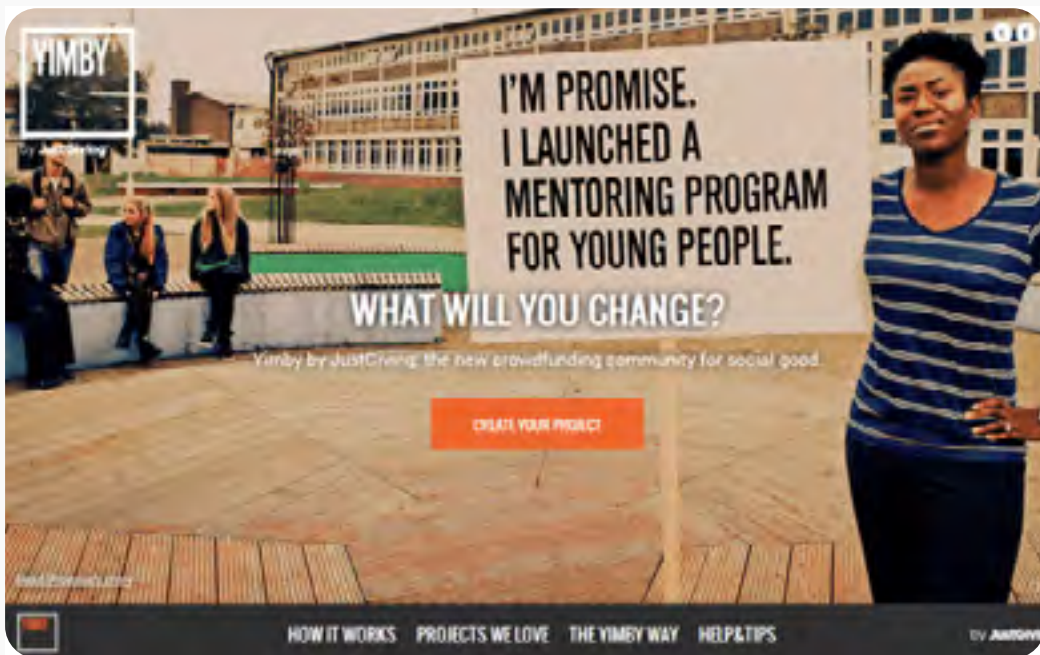

2000

No more shaking buckets in the street. Zarine Kharas and Anne Huby co-founded JustGiving.com and enabled charities to receive donations online from anywhere in the world.

2011

JustTextGiving is launched in partnership with Vodafone, allowing people to donate via text, with no set up or running costs for charities.

2015

JustGiving launch YIMBY - a crowdfunding platform enabling individuals and groups to raise money for personal causes.

2017

JustGiving is acquired by Blackbaud, The World's Leading Cloud Software Company Powering Social Good.

2019

In March 2019, JustGiving drops their 5% platform fee and instead asks donors for a voluntary contribution to support its running costs.

2020

Captain Tom sets off on his mission to raise money for the NHS. £37.5m later, he becomes the world's most successful individual online fundraiser.

1. We inspire hope
2. We make it possible
3. We share knowledge
4. We're here for everyone
5. We keep things simple
6. We bring heart.

A world where anyone can make good things happen. For every person, organisation or movement that says “I care”, we help them say “I can”. We won’t stop until everyone believes they can make a difference.

We give hope, inspire action and help people raise money for what matters.

JustGiving. I care, I can.

JustGiving from Blackbaud background

JustGiving® from Blackbaud® is our B2B customer products and services brand that is an endorsed brand from Blackbaud.

This product should always be presented to B2B customers in the context of the JustGiving from Blackbaud brand guidelines and all previous product names including Blackbaud Peer-to-Peer Fundraising™ is no longer in use and is now referred to as JustGiving from Blackbaud in all markets.

JustGiving from Blackbaud visual brand identity

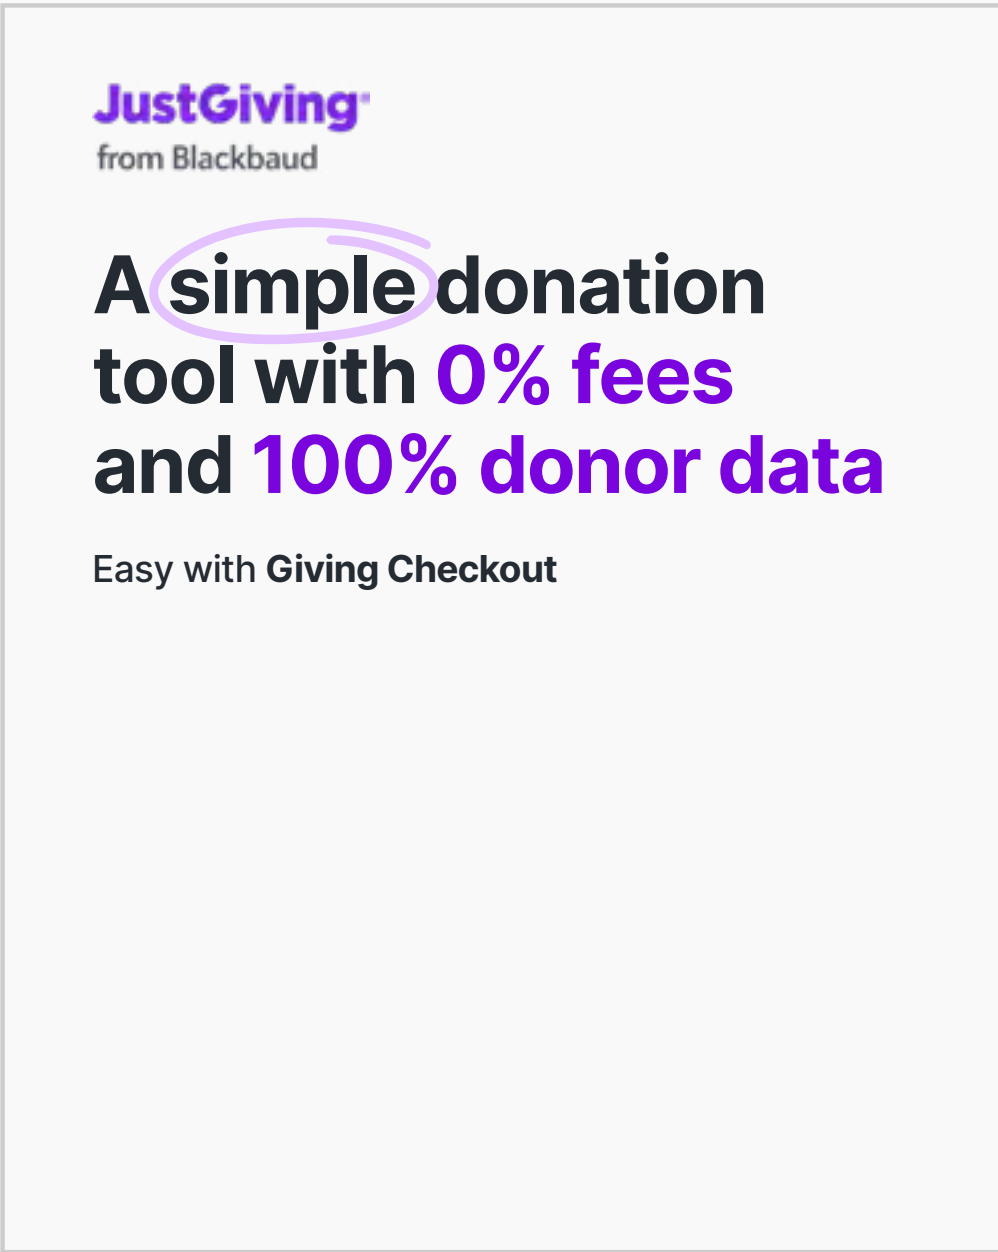

The visual identity of JustGiving from Blackbaud brand should compliment the Blackbaud Master Brand by creating a harmonised and consistent brand experience. For example it should always be shown with the JustGiving from Blackbaud colour palette, typography and graphic language system including ecosystem treatment and co-branded illustration suite. Refer to section 4 of the guidelines for specific graphic system usage and visual application.

JustGiving from Blackbaud In text

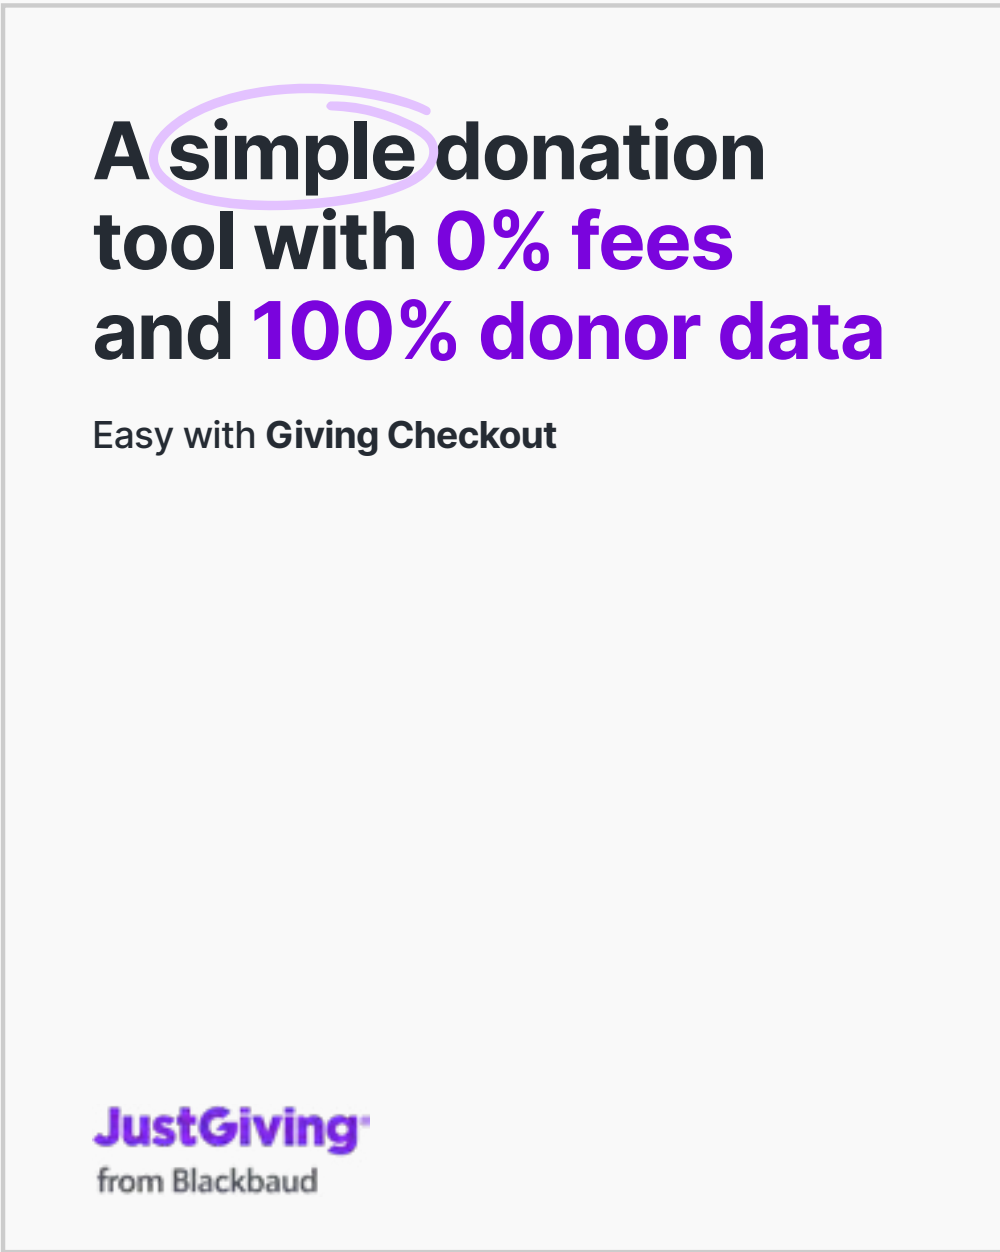

In text, JustGiving® from Blackbaud® should be fully spelled out, with both registration marks, in the first use whenever possible. It must be clear to anyone who engages with the brand that it is “from Blackbaud” (an endorsed brand from Blackbaud). If this rule is followed, it is acceptable to remove the “from Blackbaud®” tag after the first use and simply refer to the product or service as JustGiving®.

Endorsed stacked logo usage

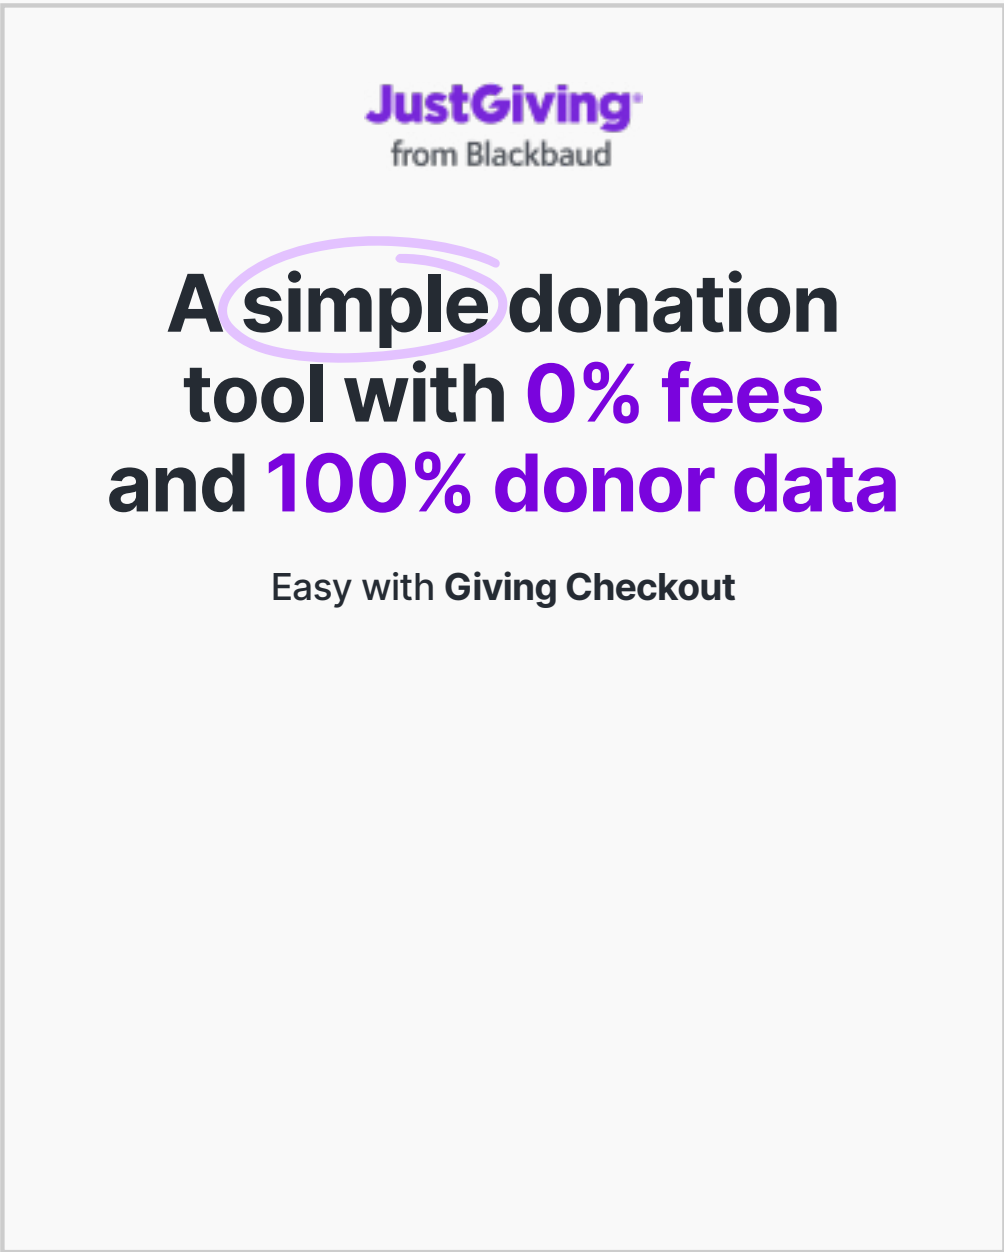

The stacked logo is the primary option for print applications, digital advert applications and branded event exhibits. The logo should be left aligned and anchored to the top or bottom of the design but never centered. Refer to p28 for examples of incorrect logo usage examples.

✓ Logo and type is top left aligned

✓ Logo is bottom left aligned, type top left aligned

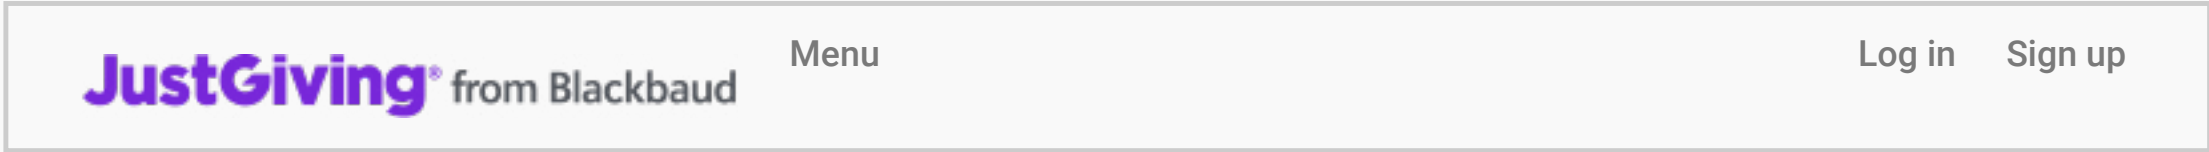

✗ Logo and type is center aligned

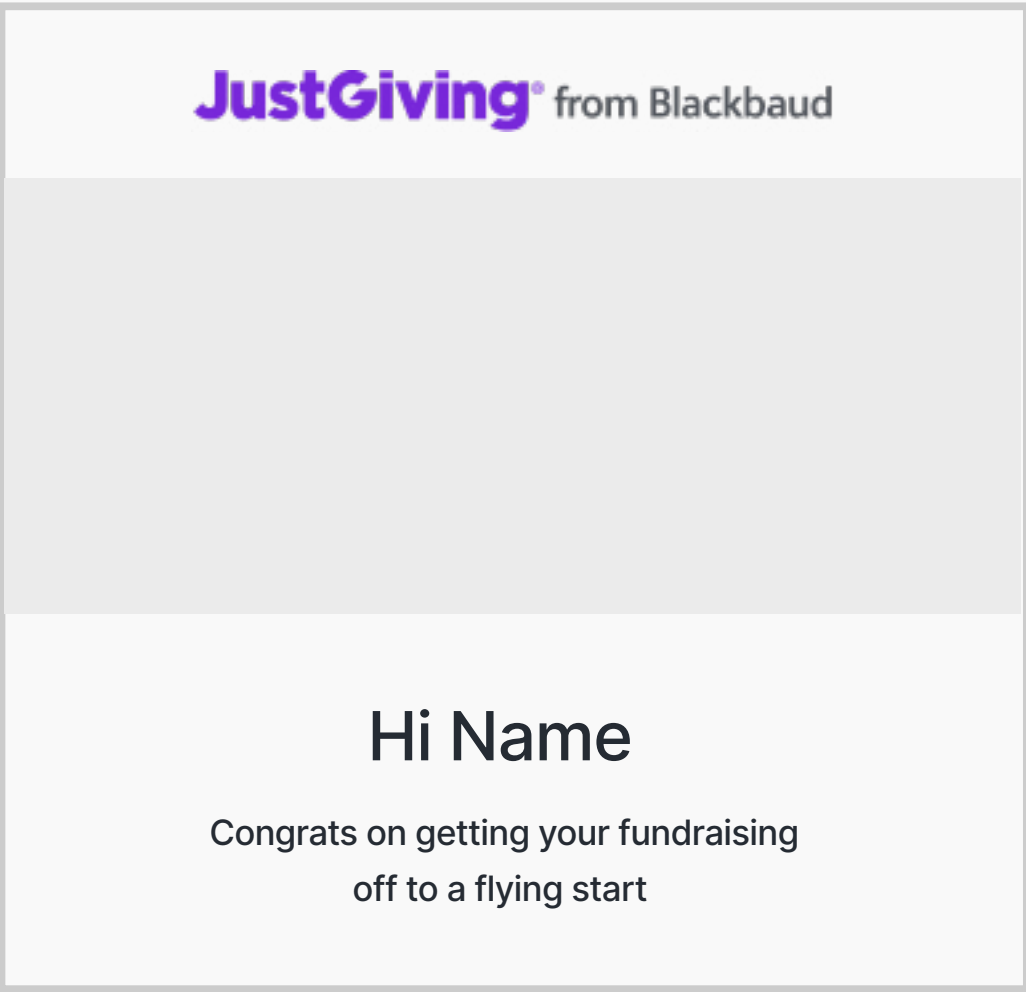

Endorsed secondary logo usage

The stacked usage option is preferred, however, when the stacked logo is not appropriate, you can use the landscape version of the logo. When working with restricted sizes that may compromise the logo legibility for example; narrow horizontal formats in print (such as merchandise) and digital applications (such as the navigation bar).

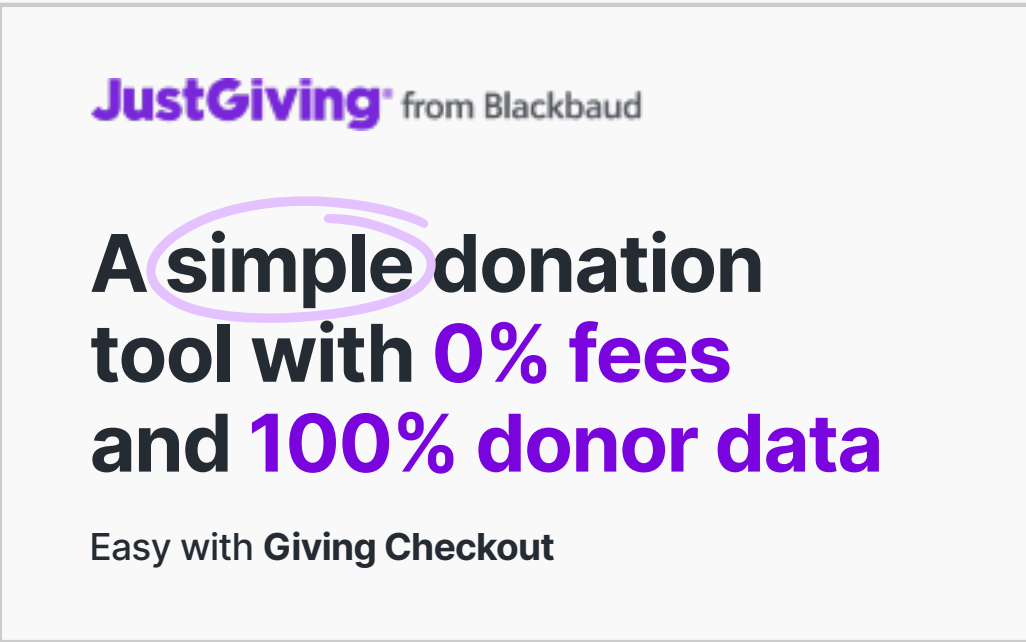

The landscape logo is the preferred choice for digital uses to ensure maximum standout in small areas. Our preferred position of the logo is in the top left-hand side, but when content and usability of your digital touchpoint restricts this (e.g., email communication), use your best judgment to achieve logo standout. The logo can appear in Black only for black-and-white and grayscale scenarios. Refer to p23 for examples of incorrect logo usage examples.

Colours

Colour has the power to evoke emotions and generate brand loyalty.

Purple does it best for us - and you'll find it in the Blackbaud palette too. This creates harmony and strengthens brand awareness.

The rest of the colours in our palette have been carefully chosen to balance our empowering personality with our caring, friendly side.

Core

All designs should begin with with our core brand colour, Jurple. Jurple can be used in text, backgrounds, illustration or our marker graphic system.

Accent

When pairing accent colors, we aim to maintain a 80/20 mix between our core and accent colours. Purple (Jurple, Violet or Dark Purple) should have a dominant presence in creative whilst orange, pink or impact green should only be used as accents or ‘pops’ of colour to create emphasis and contrast.

We use the green accent where we want to strengthen our relationship as an endorsed brand of Blackbaud. Impact Green should only be used in a B2B context and Orange and Pink should only be used in a consumer context.

Colour Accessibility Matrix

All JustGiving websites and digital products are designed to meet the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) Level AA compliance—an international standard for usable design. The below colour combinations meet accessibility standards and can be used in design.

Tone of Voice

Every word matters

Like getting a text from a friend or reading the pages of your favourite book, words play a huge part in our lives and the way they make us feel. That's why what's written on our website, our emails and even some of the less exciting bits (like Ts and Cs) are all written with care and attention to detail.

Our tone

We're lucky to have such an amazing community of 'doers' and 'givers', turning to JustGiving every day to make the world a better place.

Each of them have their own unique stories, so sensitivity and thoughtfulness will always drive how we talk to them.

Generally our voice is enthusiastic and playful, but our tone changes depending on who we're speaking to and why. For some, we're shouting from the rooftops to celebrate their fundraising achievements, but for others we're a shoulder to lean on during a tough or uncertain time.

After all, the way we speak to people shows we really care - and brands that care will always be those that are remembered. There are thousands of words out there, but we want to make ours count.

Brand Voice

Although our tone changes depending on the audience, our voice stays the same. Here are the some of the guiding principles to remember.

01.

We're fundraising experts

We're passionate about helping people raise as much as possible for the causes they love. We're friendly and knowledgeable - and it shows.

02.

We're open and honest

We're only human and sometimes we make mistakes, when we do - we own up to them. Being up front about what we're doing helps us build trust.

03.

We're always human

We speak to people like people and make everything easy to understand by avoiding unnecessary technical stuff.

04.

We're playful but respectful

We believe there's a time for sensitivity, a time to encourage, a time to have fun and a time to simply listen and learn.

Consumer content guidelines

We write with clarity

Avoid using long, complex words when a shorter word will do. We don't need to sound fancy or impressive. We want what we say to be easy to read.

Examples: 'however' instead of 'but', 'in addition to' instead of 'and' 'utilised' instead of 'used'

We keep it casual

We're BIG fans of contractions. They help us remain friendly, easy going and conversational. Occasionally, they might feel too casual. If it's a particularly serious topic then use your judgement, but nine times out of 10, a 'you're' beats 'you are'.

Examples: We're, you're, we'll, she's, he's, they'll.

We make it short and sweet

Concise writing is easier to read and digest. Don't be afraid to break up a long sentences or start them with a contraction.

Examples:

✓ "5-year-old Freddie was diagnosed with a rare form of leukaemia when he was a baby. But he's not letting that stop him. He's..."

✗ "5-year-old Freddie was diagnosed with a rare form of leukaemia when he was 1 and a half, but he's not letting that stop him so he's walking 10 miles for Macmillan Cancer Support."

We dig personalisation

By spending a little extra time personalising what we write, it shows how much we care. Whether that's as simple as a name or acknowledging a fundraising achievement, we go the extra mile to make every interaction memorable.

Examples: Hey Mira. Firstly, a massive congrats on your skydive for Macmillan Cancer Support. You're certainly braver than me! I hope you're feeling really proud of yourself.

We get to the point

The most important bit of information is the first bit you read. We do this to make our writing engaging and useful.

Examples:

✓ The drug is over 94% effective, but has some serious side effects.

✗ The drug has some serious side effects, but it's over 94% effective.

We stay humble

We're confident that we're the best fundraising website in the world, but you won't find us bragging about it or putting any of our competitors down.

There's plenty of other fundraising websites out there, but we don't think it's our place to slam anyone or anything. We'll just be here getting on with what we do best – being the most trusted place to raise money for good causes.

We use active voice

Generally speaking, active voice is better than passive voice. It's less robotic, sounds way more friendly and also helps us take responsibility.

Examples:

Passive: "Your account has been deleted."

Passive: "£400 was raised by the school children."

Active: "We've deleted your account."

Active: "The school children raised £400."

Robot talk vs. Real talk.

The nature of fundraising means that we're often talking about money and donations. Because we're a fundraising website, we often find ourselves talking about technical things too.

That's why we keep an eye out for terminology that we use with colleagues – like 'funds' when we really mean ‘money’, ‘ticket’ when we really mean ‘an email’ or ‘page owner’ when we really mean ‘fundraiser’.

Here’s a few other examples of ‘robot talk’ which can be easily replaced with ‘real talk’:

Real talk

- Sure, I can definitely help you with that!
- I’ll get that refund sorted for you straight away
- I’ll take a look at this for you right away
- So that I can get this sorted for you, would you mind confirming your date of birth?
- I’m just getting your details – hang tight!

Robot talk

- I can certainly assist you with that
- I will commence the process of refunding your donations
- Your query will be answered shortly

- In order to resolve your issue, please can you confirm your date of birth?
- Bear with me a moment whilst I obtain your details

Inclusive language guidelines

There's obviously no place for anything hurtful or mean in the way we talk, but here are some of the specific things we consider in our language - because when we don't intentionally include, we unintentionally exclude.

Gender and sexual orientation

We set aside any assumptions about the background and preferences of others by using neutral words. For example, saying "folks" rather than "guys," or "spouse or partner" rather than "husband" or "wife". We don't work on the assumption that a person is heterosexual and strive to ensure that lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans and gender diverse, intersex, queer and questioning people feel both included and respected.

Racism and ethnicity

Language is continuously evolving, so it's important to understand the meaning behind the terms we use to address people and refresh our language so that we are using the most appropriate and respectful terms. Because of the technical nature of our business, we think about all the different meanings and associations words might have. For example, using 'allow list' and 'blocklist' instead of 'whitelist' and 'blacklist, and 'main' rather than 'master.' If in doubt, please refer to this guide for race and ethnicity terminology and language.

Ability and disability

We use people-first language that centres on the individual rather than their descriptor. For example, using "people with disabilities," rather than "disabled people." We refrain from using ableist terms like 'turn a blind eye' and 'crazy', because although intentions may be good, these aren't inclusive phrases.

Graphic System

04

Our expressive graphic language

Our graphic language is memorable but flexible, designed to be adaptable for both a B2B and consumer audience, so we can always show up in the right way.

Illustration style

Our bespoke illustration suite, created in collaboration with London based illustrator, Hannah Warren, brings to life our diverse and global fundraising community.

Highlighting all the unique ways people fundraise, give and ultimately change the world. Our full illustration suite is available to download on the brand resources hub.

Note: Do not crop or edit in a way that changes the original intent of the illustration.

Hero Application

Our hero illustrations are larger, more inspirational with more detail.

Spot Application

Our spot illustrations are smaller, more functional with less detail.

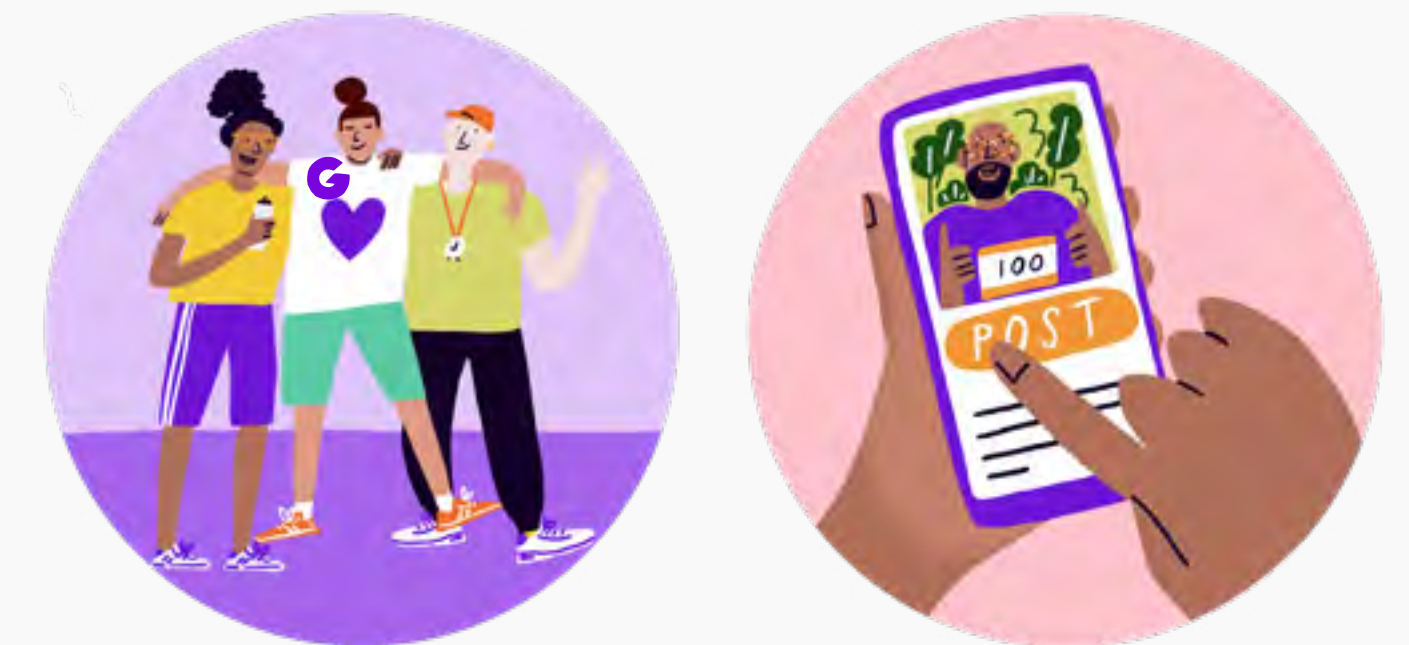

Illustration usage

Why do we use illustration?

To enrich our brand identity and to create a consistent and unique branded experience for our users across all our brand touchpoints.

Illustrations are a great tool for creative storytelling or utilized as a metaphor to make a complex idea or process simple to understand.

Representation in Illustration

We love inclusion, considering diversity, accessibility and equity is a significant part of our process for creating illustrations. Our illustrations depict our diverse fundraising community by reflecting the world as it truly exists.

Co-branded Illustration Suite

Any of our bespoke JustGiving illustrations can be custom branded for our B2B audience. These can be created using colours from the Blackbaud Master Brand Palette including the addition of the secondary Blackbaud brandmark.

New custom illustrations can be created from scratch where we want to illustrate specific B2B customer experiences.

Licensing and distribution

Our illustrations are available for digital applications only i.e. email, website, social & marketing campaigns. Illustrations must not be altered in a way that changes the original intent of the illustration. Small changes to background colours for example is allowed but must be approved by design. For any print queries please contact the design team.

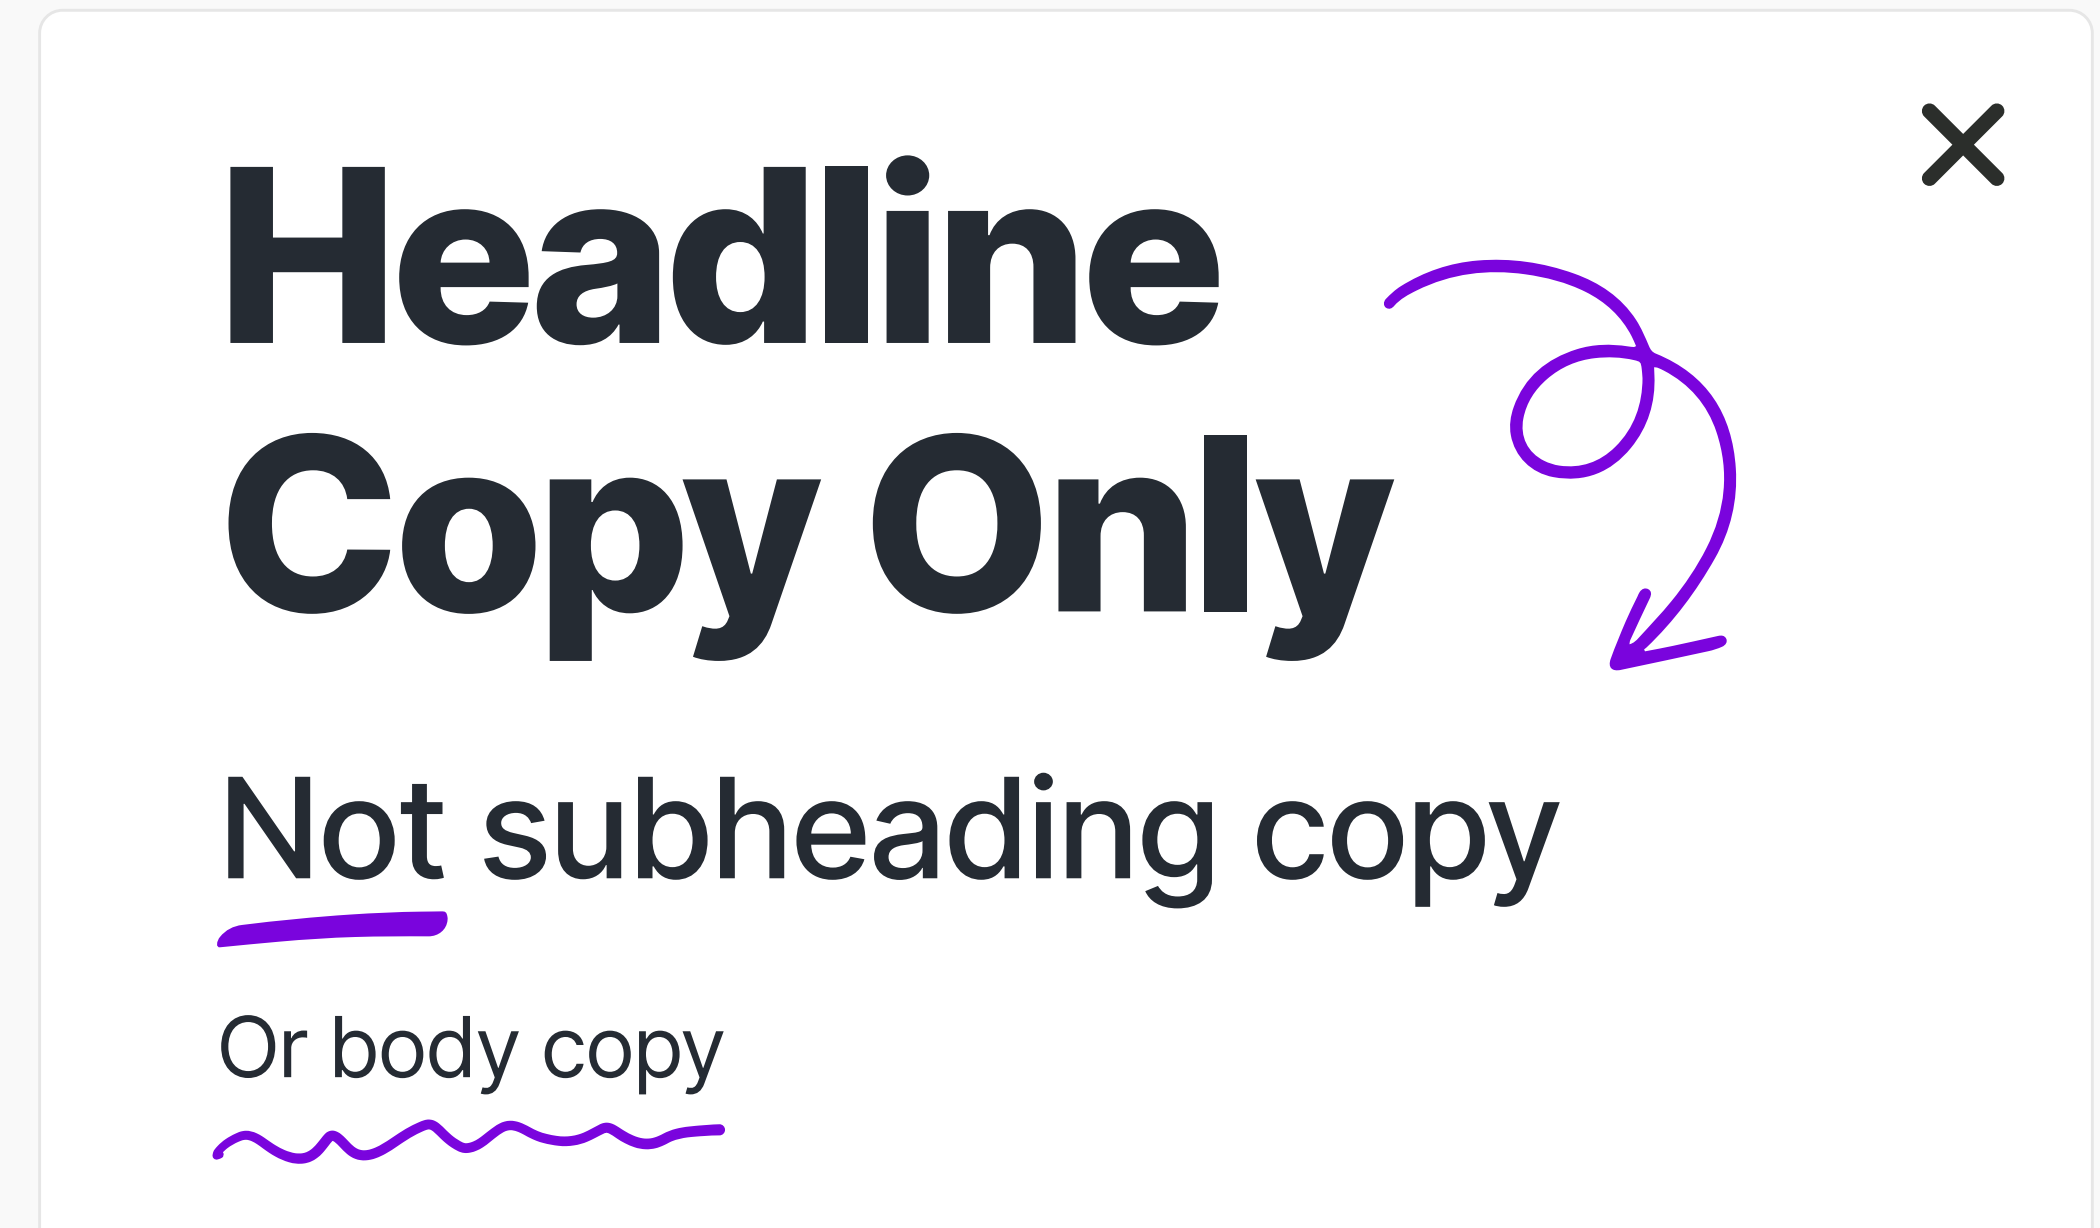

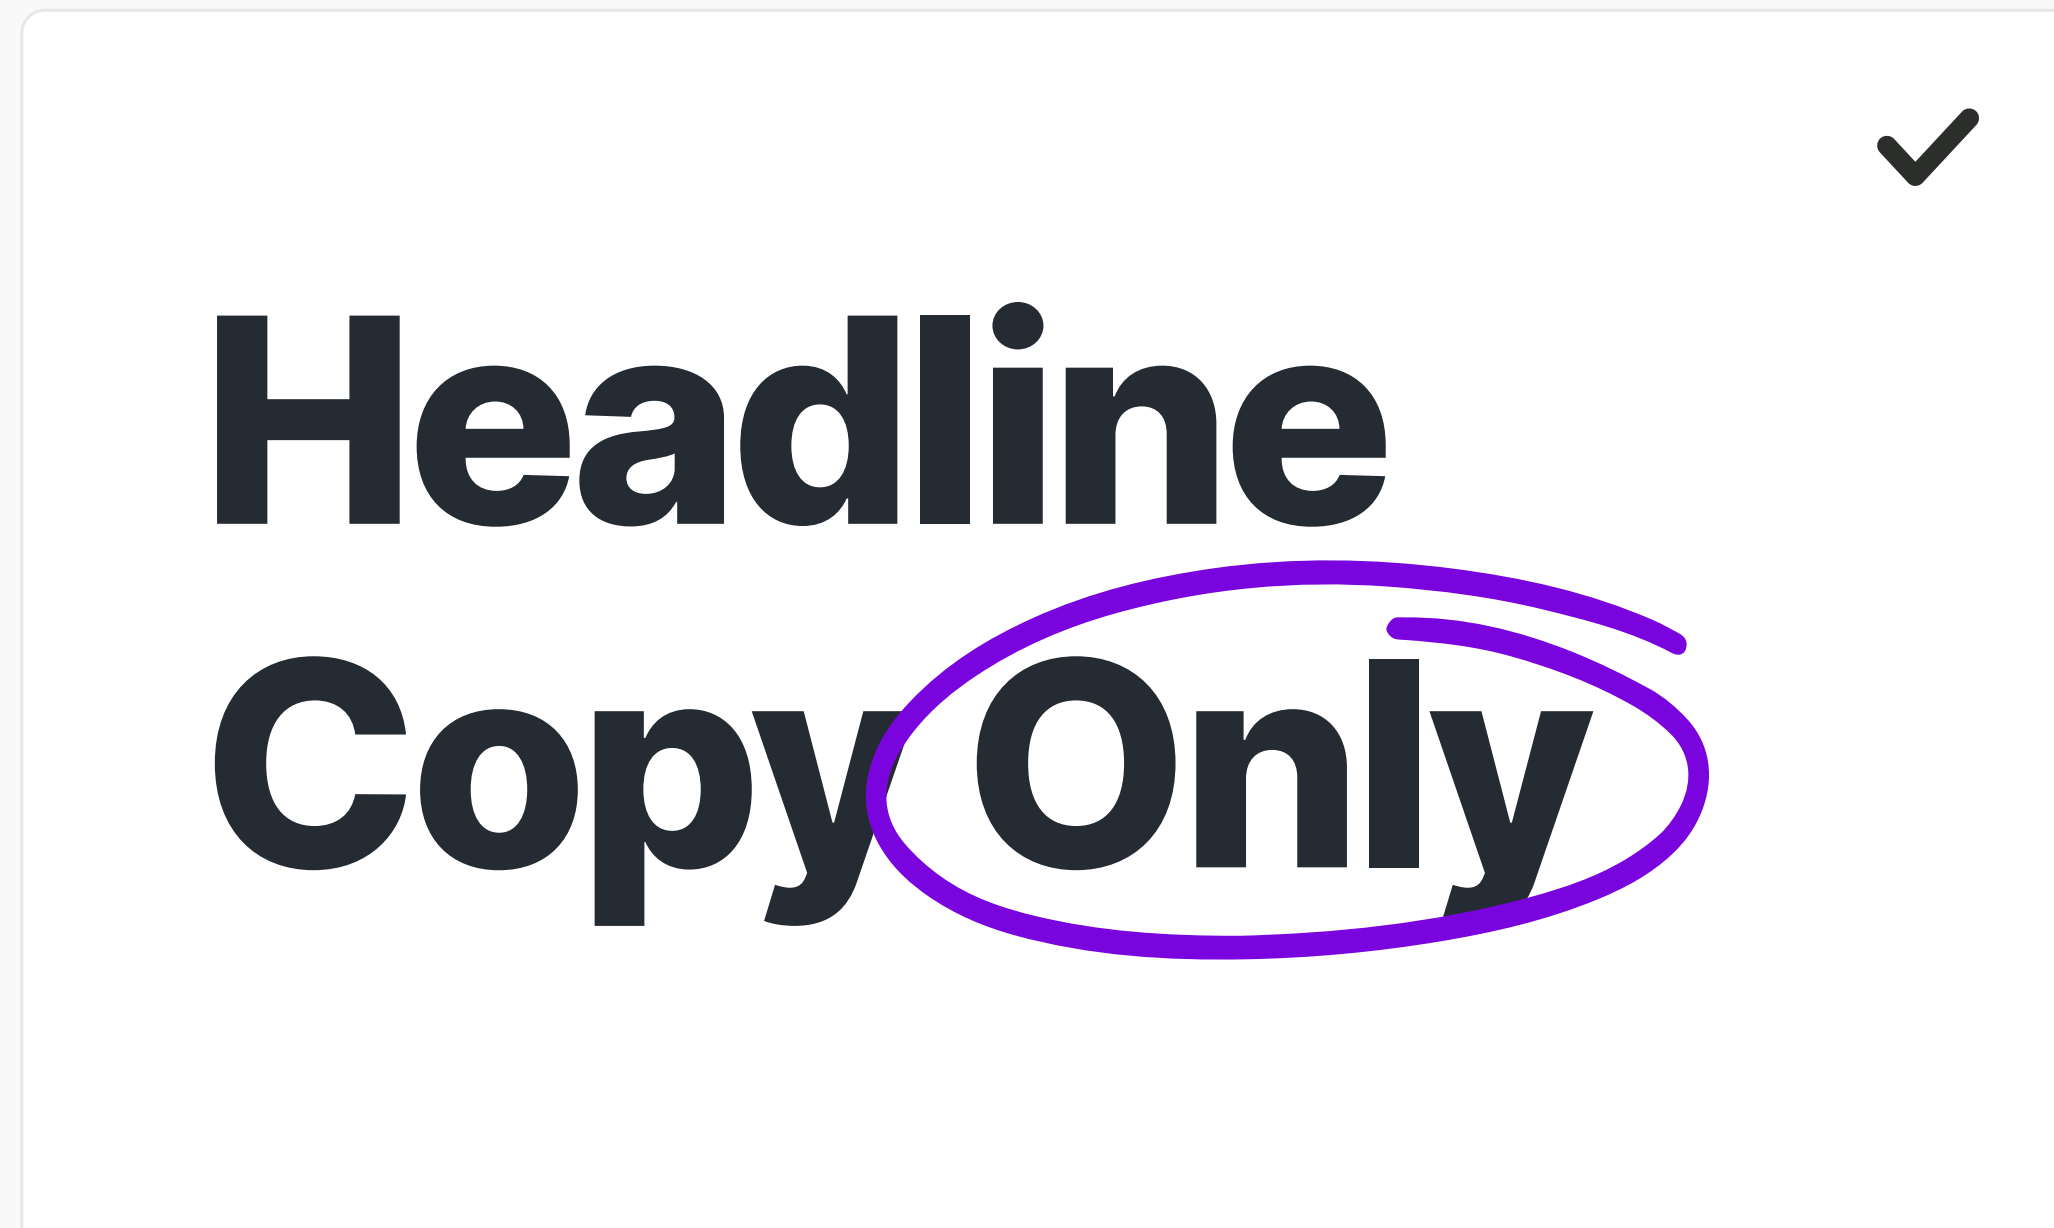

Marker graphics

Our hand drawn elements are used to create emphasis and give character. They're used to set tone and create more impactful messages. The full marker library is available to download on the brand resources hub.

Giving people are my kinda people

Marker accents

Marker Graphic Usage: our marker graphic system can be used across a broad range of applications from presentation decks to event collateral. A few tips to keep in mind when applying our markers to creative; limit usage to one to two markers per creative, use only purple or accent colours within the brand palette and use markers in headline copy only.

Buttons and Widgets

Buttons and widgets allow our users to make choices and take action. Our buttons should always use our blue interaction colour and our charity widgets should always use Jurple.

Authentic Storytelling

Art Direction

Our community make us who we are, so it's important that our brand strongly reflects their real life experiences. We use user-generated content or original photography that captures candid 'in action' moments of real people, making a difference that embodies the spirit "I care" to "I can".

Composition & Framing Devices

Layout and composition are key to creating designs that bring our story to life.

We use rounded and geometric framing devices for our photography and product mockups to create sleek visuals with a friendly tone which can be easily layered with our ecosystem graphic treatment.

Radius - 6px

Frame can be square, rectangular or circular

Product Mockups

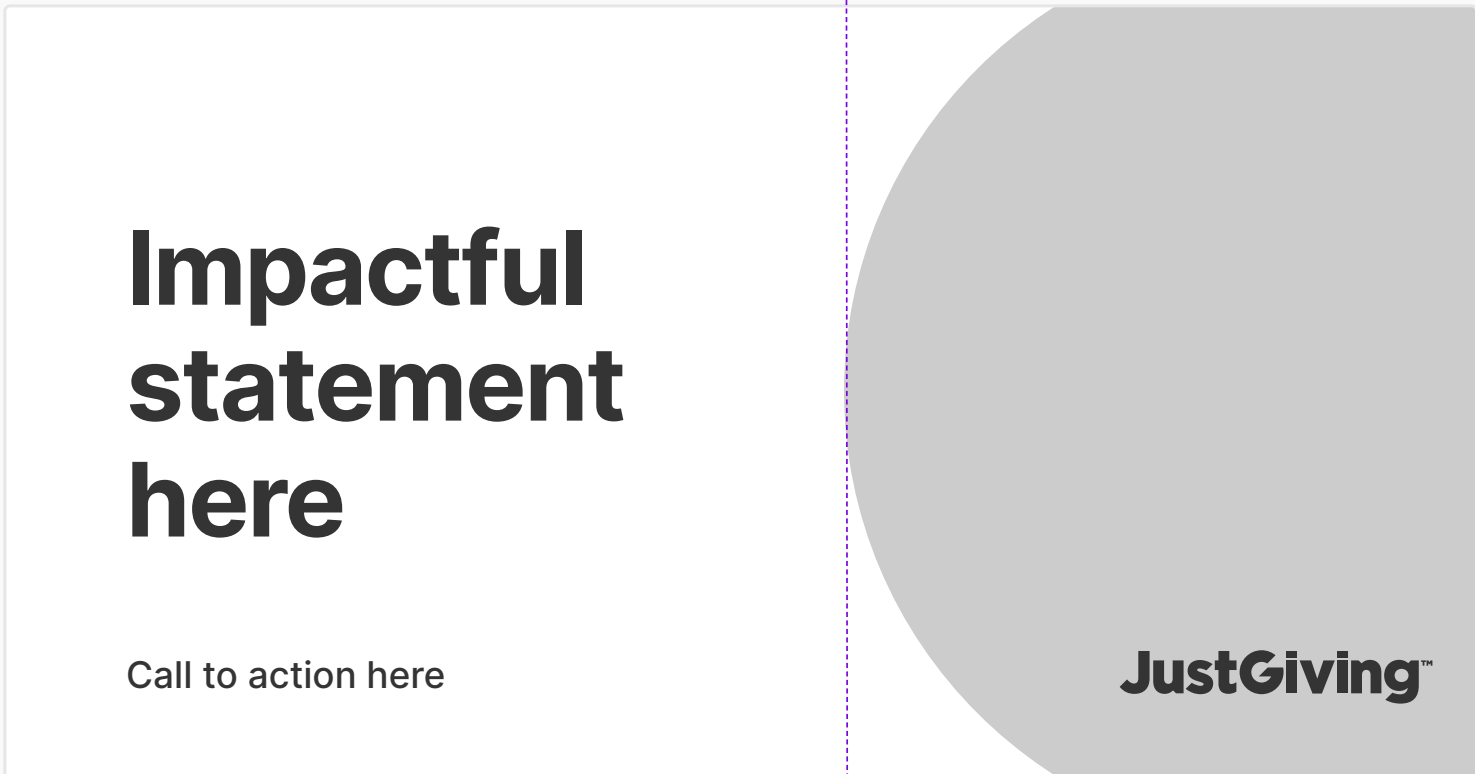

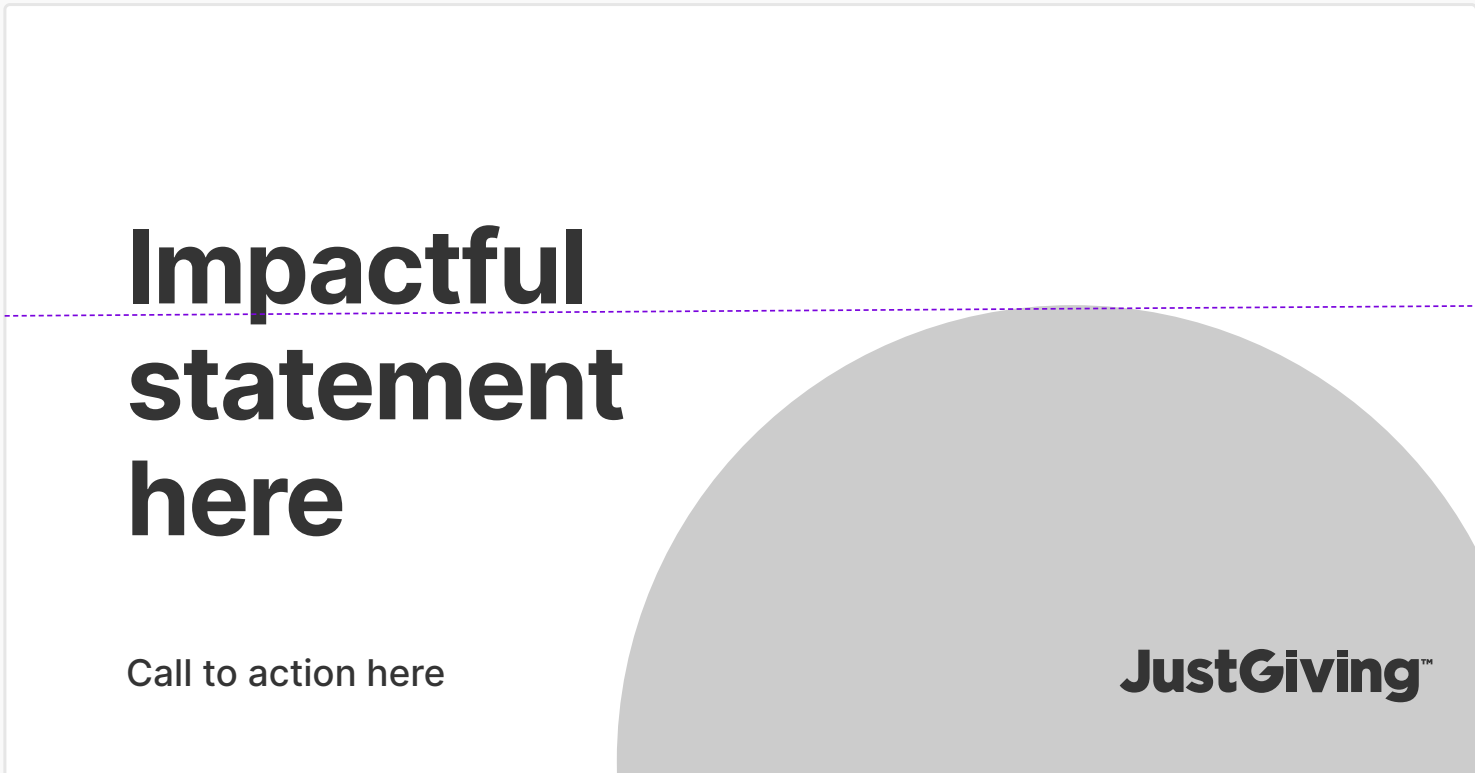

When using product mockups in layouts this can either feature a full screen or highlight individual features of the product. In small formats like a digital ads, consider legibility of the product screenshot.

Breaking the frame

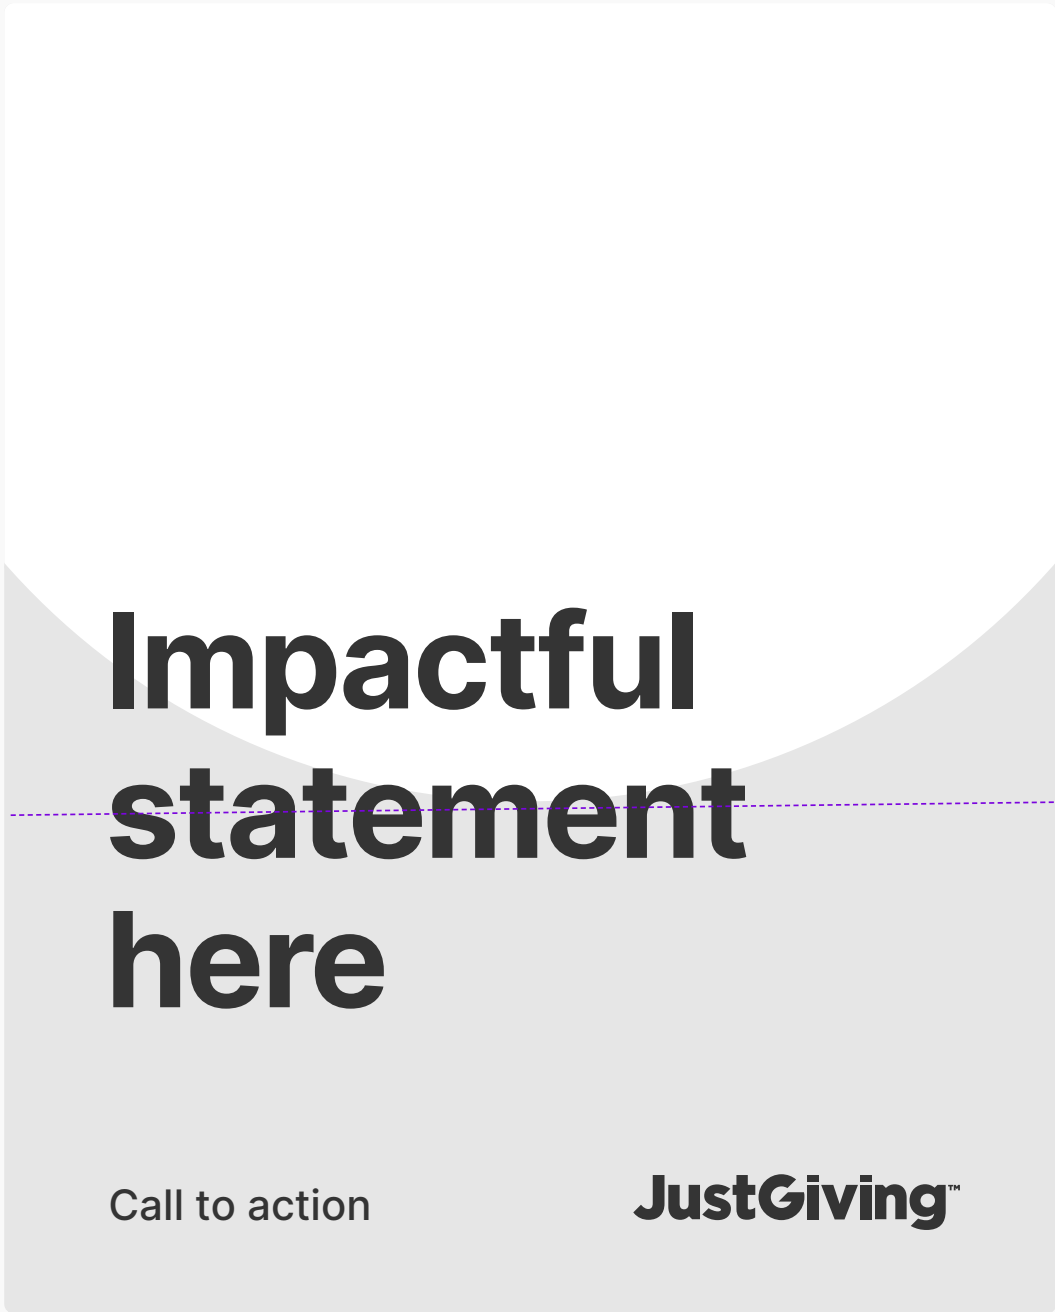

When working with photography or illustration, break the frame to add additional dimension to a composition.

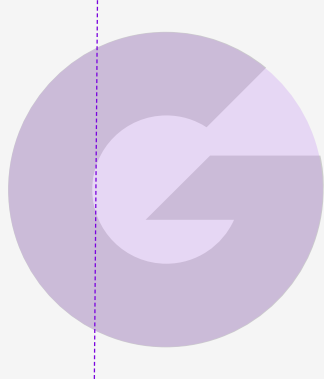

Approved Layout Variations

Note: Our framing device is derived from our letter 'G' into simplified shapes that can be widely applied across the brand.

Our Ecosystem of Good

In addition to our framing devices we can layer our ecosystem graphic treatment to our photography for added depth and connection.

An adaption of the Blackbaud ‘Ecosystem of Good’ we use this treatment when illustrating the collective power of our broad and diverse global giving community.

Colour Palette Mixes

Refer to our colour palette usage for examples of how to correctly apply the right mix of our palette.

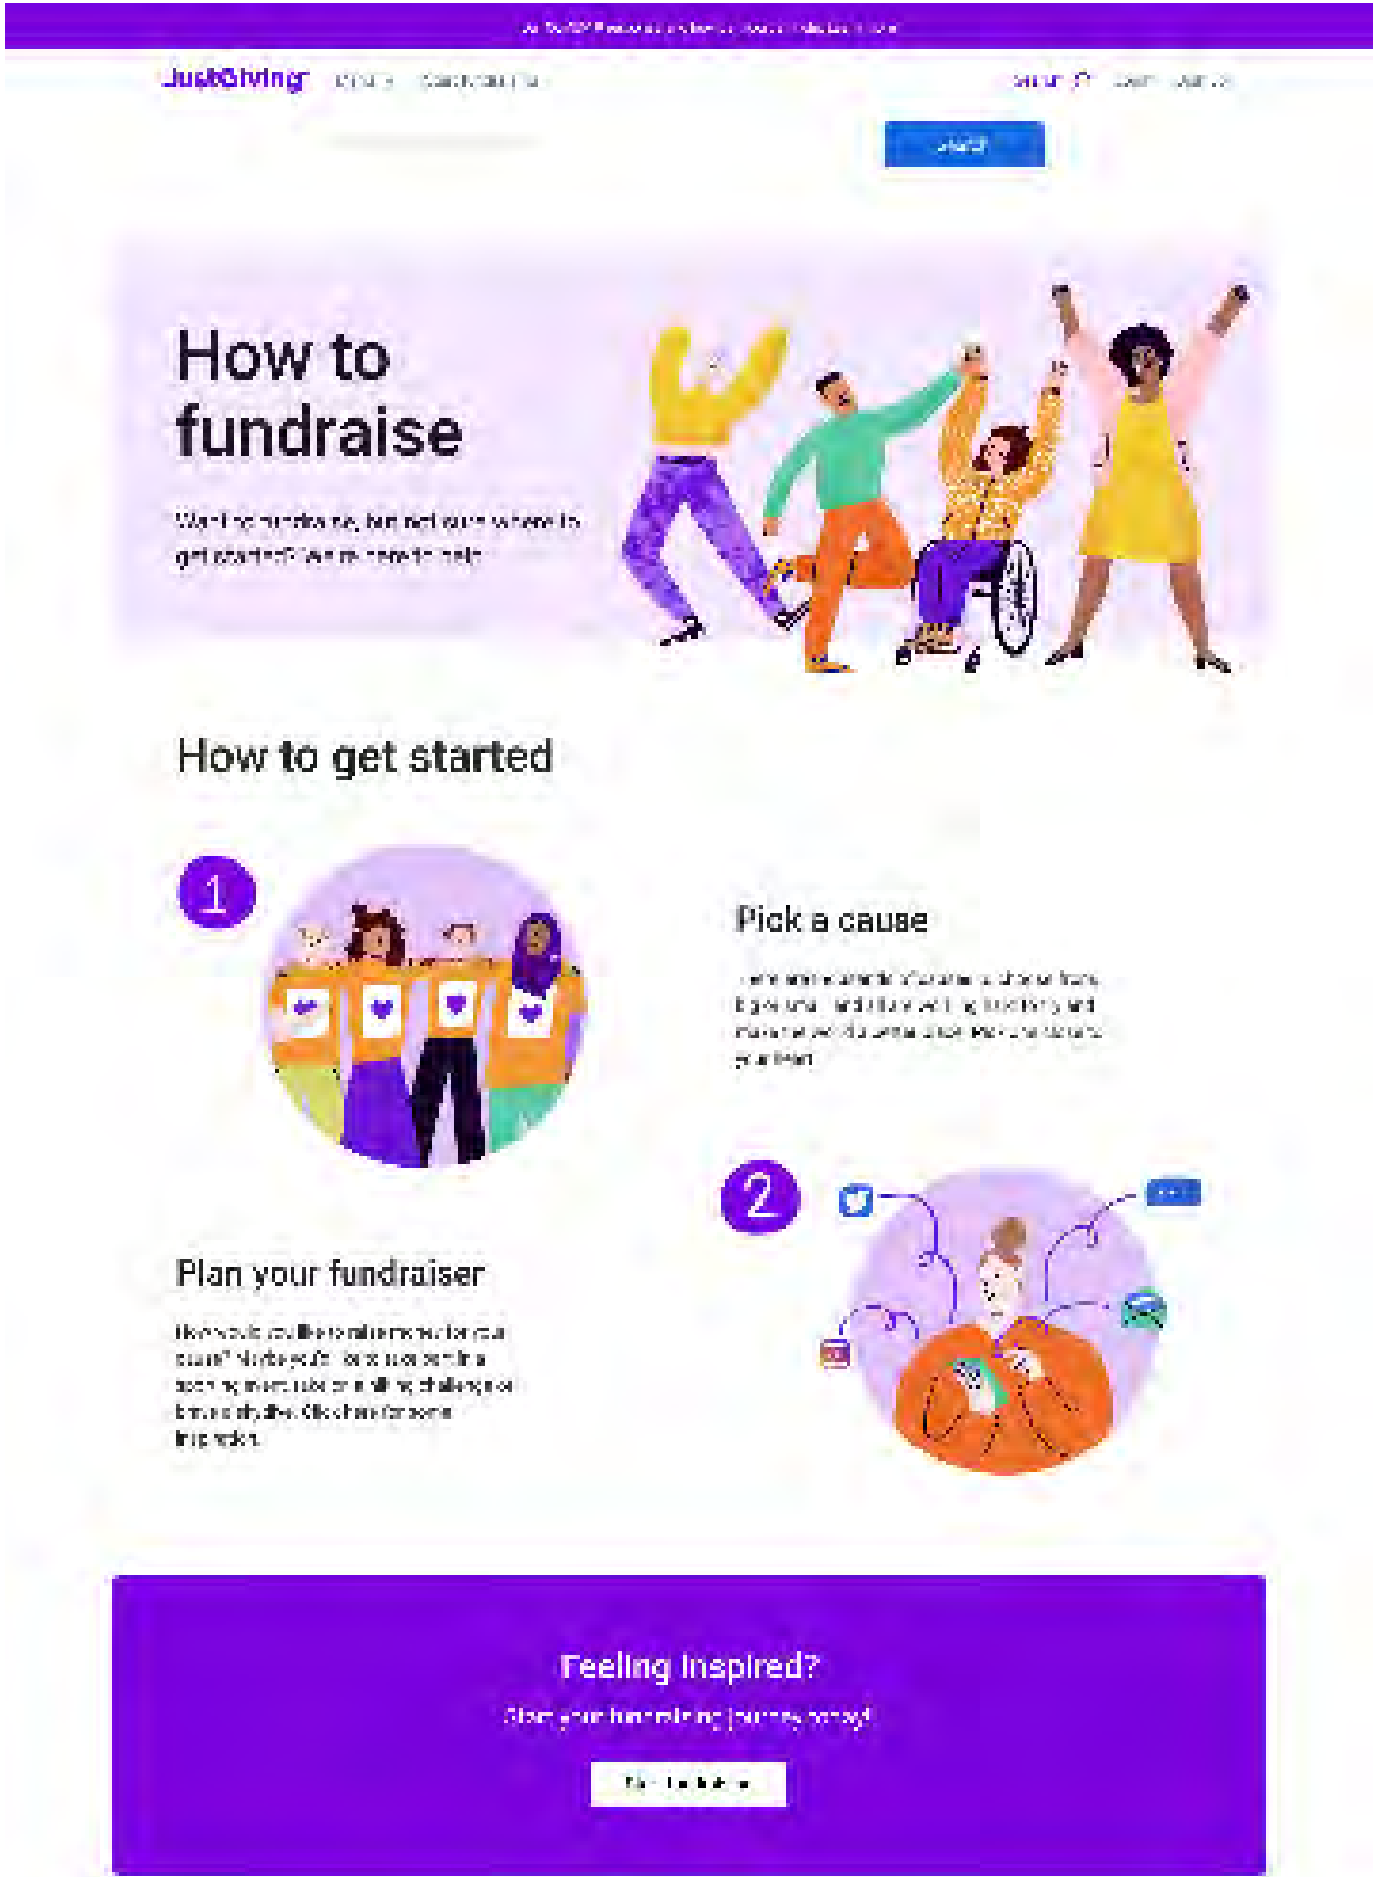

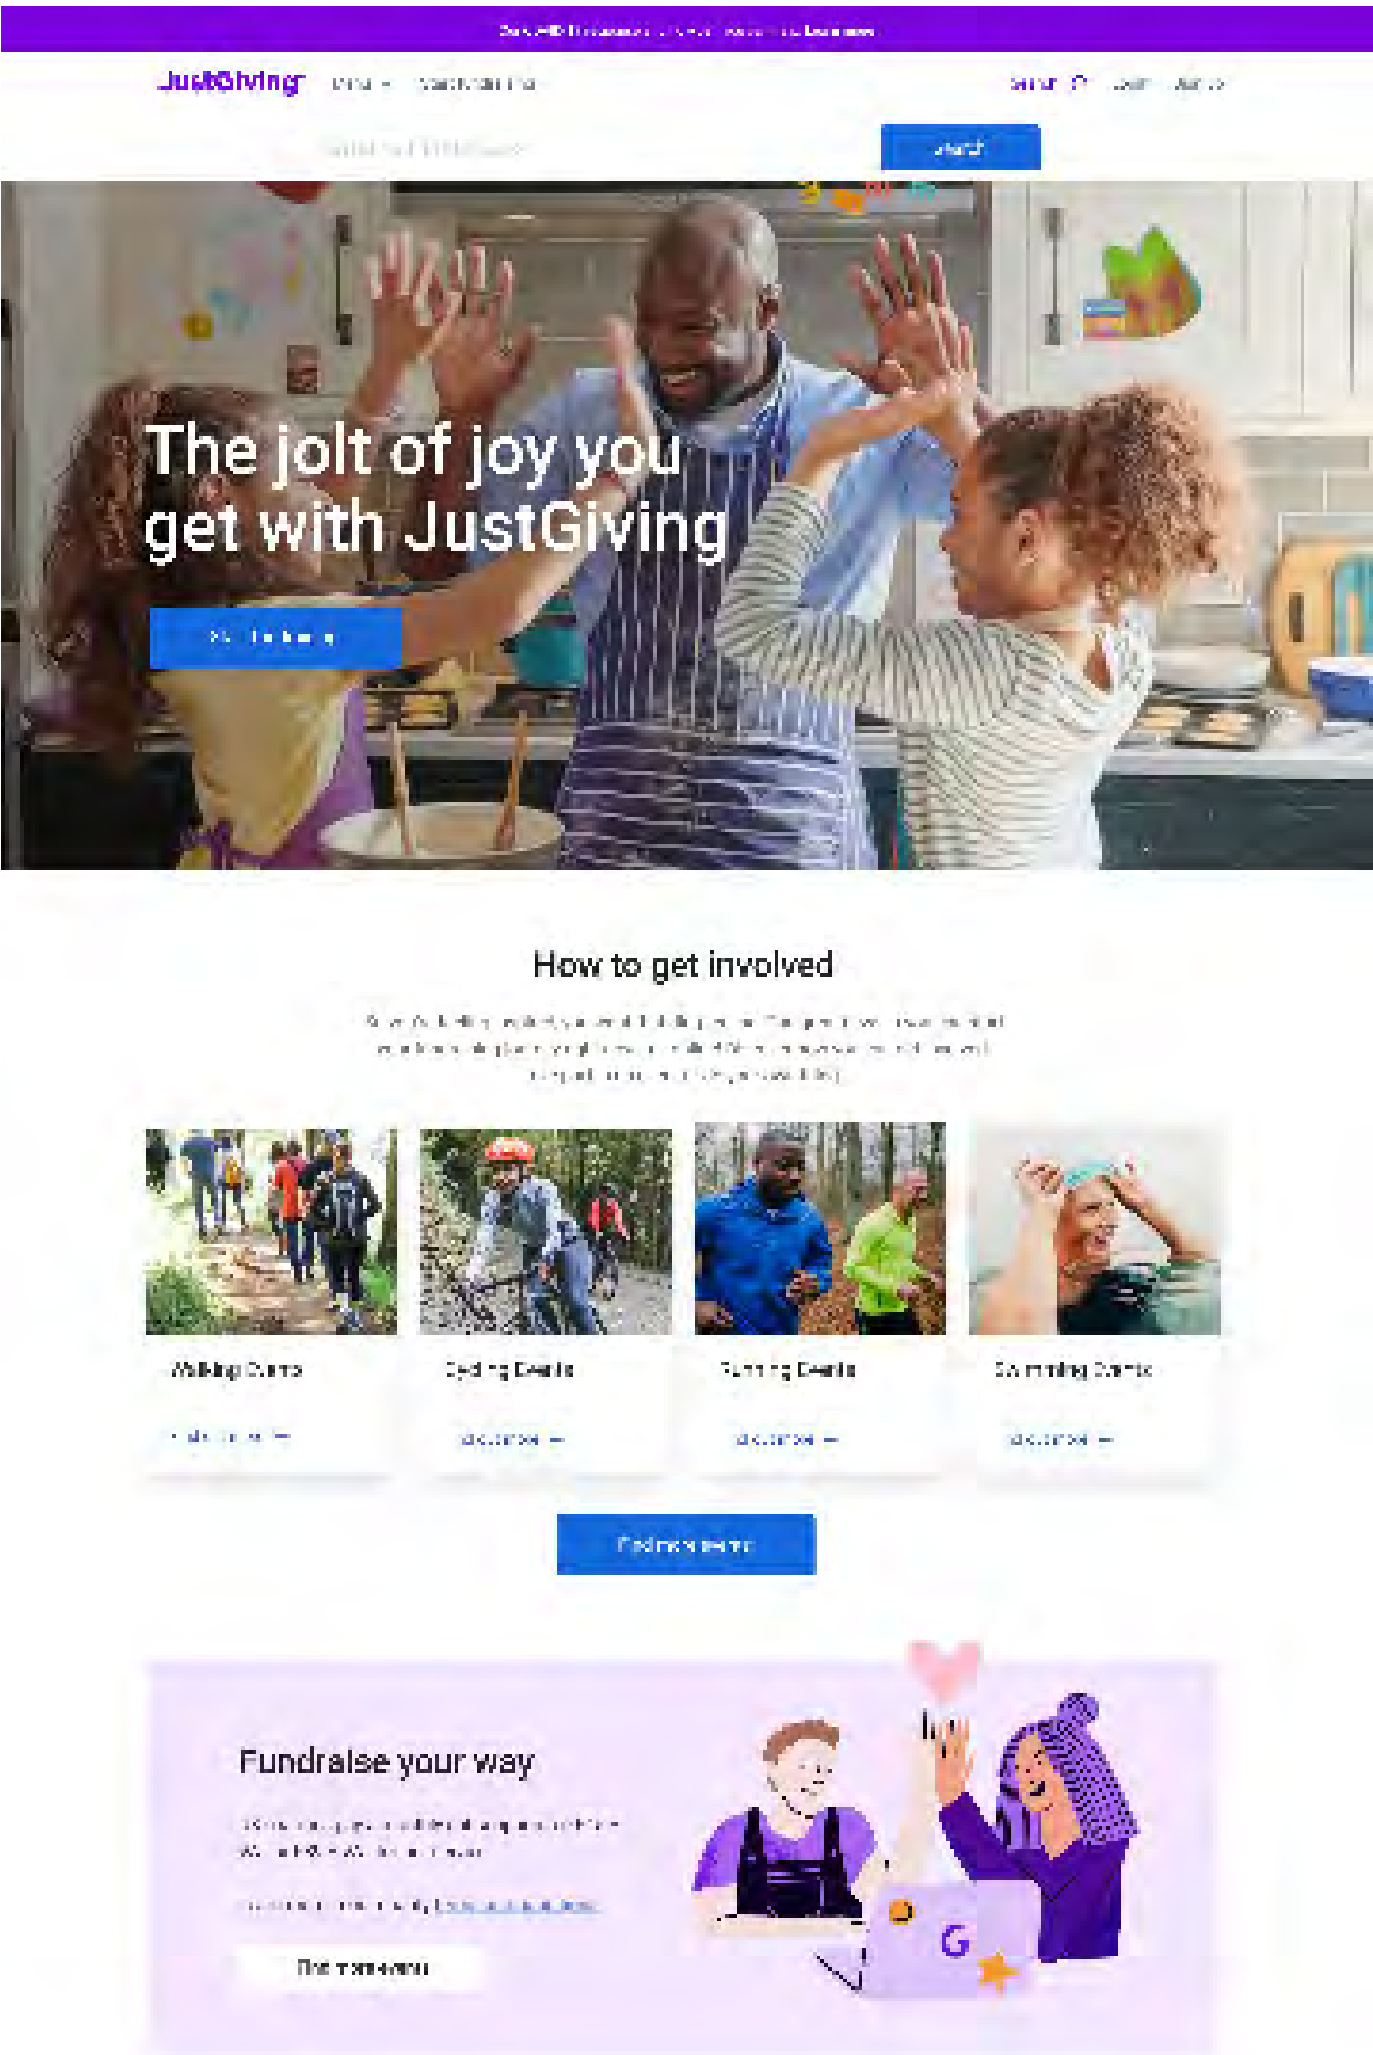

✓ Correct colour palette mix 80/20

Ecosystem Graphic Usage: This treatment can be used across a broad range of applications but should only be used in a B2B context. A few tips to keep in mind when applying our ecosystem treatment to creative; limit treatment to no more than 50% of the composition, should always be layered with photography and framing devices and impact green should only be used as a spot colour treatment.
